1. INTRODUCTION

Language is the ability possessed by every human being to communicate with other humans. In this world, the estimated total languages are around 6,000-7,000 languages. One of them is the State of Indonesia, which uses the name Indonesian. Indonesian is the official language of the Republic of Indonesia and the language of the Indonesian nation's unity. The use of the Indonesian language was inaugurated after the proclamation of Indonesian independence, exactly the day after it coincided with the noble enactment of the constitution (Wikipedia:2020).

Along with the development of the times, Indonesian people are required to master several international languages. An international language is a language used by the whole world. Wherever you are the language is there. There are at least 4 requirements to officially become an international language, namely (1) becoming the official language of the United Nations (UN), (2) the language of communication between countries, (3) English as a world language, (4) Esperanto (badan bahasa, kemdikbud sartono).

There are currently six official languages of the United Nations, namely English, French, Spanish, Russian, Mandarin and Arabic. The first five languages became the official languages of the UN General Assembly since 1945, while Arabic was designated as the sixth official language after the UN General Assembly adopted resolution 3190 on 18 December 1973 (sartono:2020).

English is the most popular language in the world as well as the most widely adopted language as the official language in several countries and international organizations. There are 53 countries and 10 international organizations that use English as the official language (dewara com.). So it is not foreign to the use of English. In schools ranging from elementary, junior high, high school there are English lessons. Likewise the use of Arabic, this language is one of the oldest languages in the world and is the language used in the Qur'an. Arabic lends a lot of vocabulary to a number of European languages. Like the sentence we usually say to greet people, namely "Assalamuakum Warahmatullahi Wabarakatuh".

In view of the changes in the curriculum, the previous KTSP 2010 turned into Kurtilas or Curriculum 2013. In the English curriculum at the elementary level, which was originally a compulsory subject, it was changed to non-mandatory. Changes in the curriculum in fact never change the basic goals of teaching English in schools. Whereas the modernity of a nation is judged by the mastery of English and Arabic as international languages. More than six years of knowing English and Arabic in conventional schools, in fact do not make a major contribution to the development of students' knowledge.

As a result of the curriculum change, a dilemma has arisen when the world demands English language skills, the 2013 curriculum does not require this subject at the elementary level. This decision is feared to have an impact on the cognitive abilities of students at school as well as concerns that elementary school students will not focus on learning the national language (Indonesian).

English is the first international language used by everyone, teachers and parents really regret this subject because it is only mulok (local content). From an early age, children should be taught to recognize language so that their reasoning and cognitive power is high and broad and able to compete globally. Arabic in educational institutions is positioned as one of the main fields of study taught in schools. The challenge faced by educational institutions is to prepare students who are able to compete in the era of new technology, the information age and are ready to face the rapid development of the times.

In this era of globalization, students must be able to master several foreign languages other than English, at least the oldest language is "Arabic". As said (Lie:2004) The Institute of Islamic and Arabic Knowledge (LIPIA), the Asian Muslim Charity Foundation (AMCF), as well as policies in the formal education sector, namely Arabic is officially taught as a foreign language in schools. 6 months ago English and Arabic subjects were taught directly by teachers in their respective schools. However, since the spread of the Corona virus, all learning has been stopped. Nadiem Karim as the Minister of Education and Culture issued Circular Letter Number 15 of 2020 regarding guidelines for organizing learning from home during the emergency period for the spread of Covid 19.

In this circular, it is stated that the purpose of implementing learning from home is to ensure the fulfillment of the rights of students to obtain educational services during the Covid 19 emergency, prevent the spread and transmission of Covid 19 in education units, and ensure the fulfillment of psychosocial support for educators, students and parents/ guardian (Kemendikbud:2020).

With this regulation issued, students are forced to study from home. Learning that should be carried out in schools, teachers and students who should come and study to this place of seeking knowledge, now has to go through online media. Online media is also an intermediary between educators and students. Media or applications that are often used such as google classroom, google doc, zoom, google meet, youtube, whatsapp group etc. All materials or assignments are distributed through the media. Thus many shortcomings and are not met for learning purposes. Among them are limited internet access, lack of interaction with teachers, understanding of the material and minimal supervision in learning.

By looking at this situation and the importance of mastering English and Arabic in Indonesia, especially in the Bringin area, Ngaliyan Semarang. KKN RDR students group 46 from UIN Walisongo Semarang made a work program for learning English and Arabic for the children of TPQ Baitul Istiqomah Semarang. This lesson is held once a week every 15.00 WIB on Tuesday and Friday.

The children of TPQ Baitul Istiqomah, consisting of 70 children, come from various levels of schools and grades. Such as kindergarten, PAUD, SD grades 1-6. However, the head of the language coordinator selects children who take this class and the results are mandatory for elementary school grades 4-6. And this bilingual learning program has been approved by the chairman of the Baitul Istiqomah TPQ Mr. Khasbul Khoiri and the chairman of the Baitul Istiqomah Mosque takmir Mr. Mundakir.

2. METHOD

In this activity the appropriate methods are PAR (participatory Action Research) and ABCD (Asset-Based Community driven). This activity is carried out offline by observing the Health protocol. The activity has been carried out by students of the 75th Regular Real Work Lecture (KKN) Group of 46 UIN Walisongo Semarang according to the plan that has been prepared previously. The coordination carried out with the TPQ Baitul Istiqomah Coordinator in Wates Hamlet, Beringin Village, Ngaliyan District, aims to increase the Arabic and English language skills of TPQ Baitul Istiqomah students. Thus, the target of the activity can be achieved according to the target and is beneficial for TPQ students.

Theoretical Framework

As a preliminary study, the journal of language education through Learning Languages "Arabic and English" in Hamlet Wates Rw 5 Bringin, Ngaliyan Semarang is one of the introductions to capture the theoretical framework in implementing the RDR 75 KKN work program as well as this research-based service. From the journal, it is known that the pattern implemented is by holding Arabic and English lessons once a week at the Baitul Istiqomah Mosque, especially for children who are in elementary school grades 4-6. This service focuses on learning foreign languages, namely English and Arabic, the goal is that TPQ Baitul Istiqomah children can master this foreign language more deeply. Moreover, in the midst of this pandemic, children cannot be directly monitored how their learning process is. So this KKN student tries to help and advance TPQ Baitul Istiqomah to be even better.
Akhmad, 2014 explains that language plays an important role in human life because language is a means of human communication in everyday life. With language, a person can convey ideas, thoughts, feelings or information to others. Along with the development of science and technology, the need for one's language is also increasing, not only in everyday language but also in foreign languages, becoming an obligation that must be fulfilled by society in general and among students in particular. Mastery of foreign languages is a necessity in life now and in the future.

(Fatmawati, 2010) in this study discusses the problems faced when raising the title "Arabic language learning" namely subject matter, facilities and learning methods, as well as student motivation, interests and learning methods. The existence of this language learning makes individuals able to practice it in everyday life. Because, by obtaining this information, individuals can add insight and can make changes to their behavior.
